WINDSOR'S CAPITAL SPORT

BLIND BAGGAGE PROVES HIMSELF MORE THAN A SPRINTER IN THE MAIN RACE.

Britannia Makes it Four Wins in Succession—Early Sight Claimed When He Is Beaten—Trainers and Jockeys Granted Licenses.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—E. R. Bradley's good three-year-old, Blind Baggage scored another impressive victory at Windsor this afternoon, when he made a runaway affair of the Metropole Hotel Cup a dash of one mile, in which he met some of the best horses in training at the course. Blind Baggage ran under restraint for the entire race, and ran the mile in 1:39⅖. Commonada was second and All Smiles, third.

Britannia scored her fourth straight victory when she beat an ordinary band of Canadian bred two-year-olds in the opening. The filly was a bit lame when going to the post but ran gamely.

After Early Sight was beaten in the second race, he changed owners, H. B. Dalley claiming him from J. K. L. Ross for $1,050.

Capt. W. H. May, who is here for the meeting, was struck by an automobile yesterday and is confined to his home. He escaped with a few bruises.

Harry Rites claimed Albena after he was beaten in his last race. Rites had the horse last spring and lost him by the claiming process.

Previous to the races this afternoon the stewards of the Canadian Racing Associations held a meeting. Licenses were granted to a number of trainers and riders. No business of importance came up. W. P. Fraser, secretary of the Canadian Racing Associations was unable to be present, being confined to his home in Toronto, suffering from a slight attack of the sun. Mr. Dyment acted as secretary in his absence. The following trainers were licensed:

J. O. Gibson, A. Baker, J. H. Baker, F. S. Goff, S. J. Kelley, H. Louder, W. A. Mauriel, P. J. Miles, D. E. Stewart, A. H. Vivell, R. McMillan, T. R. Queen, A. Brent, J. J. Shannon, G. A. Alexandra and G. M. Miller.

Licenses were granted to jockeys as follows: W. Lilley, J. Sloan, G. Scherrer, G. Alexandra, Jr., J. J. Campbell, F. Cooper, C. Martin, C. Hunt, A. Banks, H. Jeffcott, A. Nerger, B. Hescott, K. Weathersby and J. Brown. Jockey C. Dishmon was given permission to accept outside mounts.

Greetings was advanced $600 by S. Louis over her entered price of $500 after she won and was retained by her owner.

Capt. W. F. Presgrave purchased the mare Ask Ma from Sam Louis this morning. She will be raced through the Canadian circuit and next spring will be mated with Dalhousie.

A. R. Loudon, secretary of the Hamilton Jockey Club, was an arrival. Mr. Loudon reports that there are at present close to 200 horses at the Hamilton track, a number of which are jumpers. The steeplechase course is thrown open twice a week, so as to permit the steeplechasers to be schooled.

John McLaughlin of Lexington, who is interested in the stable that J. H. Baker is racing at Windsor, was an arrival from Kentucky this morning.

Jockey Mott is making an effort to get a release from the contract that A. L. Austin holds on him, and the matter has been taken under advisement by the authorities.

W. W. Darden was an arrival from Tennessee this morning. His filly, Lady Ivan has been here for several days. She is entered in a couple of stakes here.

CURRENT NOTES OF THE TURF.

At Tijuana July 14 Caro Nome was sold at auction in the paddock to Samuel Lando for $450.

One of Harry Payne Whitney's juveniles, Master McGrath, is described as the worst post actor in the east.

Trainer C. W. Carroll will leave Tijuana tonight for Reno with A. B. Spreckels' Nevada Derby candidate, Sangallo. J. Groth will have the mount on the colt in his Derby engagement.

George Starr has shipped to W. J. Young, at Latonia, Al Hudson and Galloping Queen. Mr. Starr has been handling these horses for the Kentucky Stable, and they will be shipped to Saratoga along with the Young horses.

Baron A. de Rothschild, says the Deutscher Sport, has handed the whole of the Austrian Derby stakes won by his colt, Sanskrit, to his wife for distribution in connection with war and other charities. The value of the stakes to the winner was, roughly, $20,000.

The German Crown Prince's colors were successful on Whit Monday at Berlin-Karlshorst in a minor steeplechase by aid of his aged mare Baby, steered by a jockey named Wurst. Baby was bred in Ireland eight years ago by Mr. J. Widger and is by The Gunner out of Avonberg.

On Saturday there is another $5,000 stake at Empire City in the Eastview, which is named after Mr. Butler's Tarrytown farm. This race also is for the two-year-old, and in it Harry Kelly, which won Saturday's feature, may get a chance to meet some better ones than he has tried against in any of his other races.

The directors of the Kentucky Association, at a meeting last week, authorized a number of improvements at the Lexington race course. The grandstand is to be extended thirty feet towards the betting shed, and more boxes are to be added. Another room is to be added to the secretary's office; the pavement in front of the grandstand and betting shed is to be raised; space for four mutuel machines will be arranged, and a number of other improvements are to be made.

Jockey E. Pool last week celebrated his twenty-second birthday at Tijuana, where he has been riding with much success. He has had a busy season of it, and his contract employer, W. P. Fuller, recently decided that, with a view to lightening his work, his riding shall be confined to horses from his contract stable, including trainer Peter Romigh's pair Manganese and La Cazadora, and the two-year-old speed marvel, Rollin Laird, which was placed in charge of the Fuller trainer a few days ago. According to report Fuller is negotiating for the purchase of Rollin Laird.

Nearly all of these horses are now at Hawthorne and much speed is involved. If the handicapper does his work artfully a fiercely contested sprint should be the result.

MATCH RACING IN OLD-TIME ENGLAND.

Vast Sums Won and Lost Over Such Events—Novel Combination Matches.

Matches are almost unknown in the horse racing world of today, but they were common enough in the good old days before the sorry mating of racing with business. A match was a truly sporting event: stakes were heavy, vast sums were bet and the excitement of the race would stir the whole nation.

So much property was lost by the "gentlemen of the south" to the "gentlemen of the north" over a match run at Newmarket at the dawn of the eighteenth century, says the London Evening Standard, that the statute of Queen Anne was enacted to restrict betting. Yet in 1759 a Captain Shafton won $80,000 by winning a bet that he would not complete fifty miles in two hours with as many horses as he pleased. And in 1806 the sporting and gallant Colonel Mellish lost bets to the tune of $160,000 in a match for $10,000—his horse breaking down when victory seemed assured. When in 1799 Sir H. Vane-Tempest's Hambletonian was matched against Diamond for $15,000 at Newmarket, the place was so crowded with visitors that not a bed was to be had within twenty miles.

One hundred thousand people assembled to see a lady ride in a match at York in 1804 against a sportsman of celebrity and $1,000,000 was said at the least to depend on the result. The lady's horse—nearly tweny years old—was beaten. The last of these memorable sporting events to arouse an interest through the whole country took place in 1851 when Lord Eglington's Flying Dutchman beat Lord Zetland's Voltiguer at York.

A great deal of money has changed hands over matches in which riders have undertaken to cover twenty miles in the hour, a feat often performed successfully. A great performance was that of a featherweight jockey who, at Newmarket in 1786 rode a horse twenty-three miles in two or three minutes under the hour. The Earl of March, "Old Q.," was on the winning side of a sporting match for $5,000 in 1750, when "a carriage with four running wheels and a person in it" was to be drawn by four horses nineteen miles in an hour. The match was won in fifty-three minutes and twenty-seven seconds, and a grand sight it must have been to see the four horses and their riders setting up such a record.

A great ride was that of a Mr. Lipscombe, who, in 1824, carried ninety miles in four hours and fifty-three minutes on eight horses. That famous all round sportsman, Squire Osbaldeston, performed a marvelous feat in 1831 when, having undertaken to ride 200 miles in ten hours for $5,000 a side, to say nothing of bets, he finished in eight hours and thirty-nine minutes "as gay as a lark." He was forty-four years of age and weighed over eleven stone, yet one of his twenty-eight horses carried him four miles in eight minutes. For several riders the claim has been made that they have ridden 1,000 miles in 1,000 successive hours; and in 1891 J. Davies drove one horse in a dog cart 1,000 miles in nineteen days, an average of fifty-two miles a day.

Some very old matches find a place in the annals of the turf and the road. Has not Newmarket Heath seen "geese races" in the days of Lords Rockingham and Orford? At York, in the middle of the eighteenth century, a trick rider rode one mile standing upright on horseback for $500; he was allowed three minutes and rode home with eighteen seconds in hand. At the end of the century an officer trotted 15 miles from Chelmsford to Dunmow in 1 hour 9 minutes, his face to his horse's tail. In 1800 a naval officer rode a blind horse around Sheerness race course for a wager, the conditions being that he should not touch the reins with his hands. This however, did not prevent him from having the reins fastened to his feet.

To walk fifty miles, drive fifty miles and ride fifty miles in twenty-four consecutive hours was a task that Captain Polhill easily accomplished in 1826 with nearly five hours to spare. In our own time, 1891, J. B. Radcliffe succeeded in rowing a quarter of a mile and in swimming, running, cycling and riding a horse the same distance all within the space of fifteen minutes. Merely to think of such a feat is enough to make one tired.

SPUR'S KNICKERBOCKER HANDICAP.

Carries Much Weight and Wins the Feature Race at Empire City with Ease.

New York, July 18.—James Butler's Spur demonstrated today in the Knickerbocker Handicap at Empire City that he can carry weight well when running with horses of his own age. He was admirably ridden by jockey Loftus and, running around his opponents, won comfortably. Tea Caddy threatened to give him some trouble for a time, but as soon as Loftus was ready to shake Mr. Belmont's colt off the race was over. The disappointment in the running was Dick Williams, which was never dangerous. Celandria, as usual, finished fast. She evidently has not improved much over her two-year-old form.

This was the special feature of the day's sport. The weather was extremely hot and the crowd numbered about 4,000.

The apprentice allowance of jockey L. Mink will expire tomorrow.

Libyan Sands was purchased by the Belmont stable and ran under its colors today. J. W. Hedrick claimed the colt out of a selling race a few days ago.

Frank Steinhart, president of the street railway company of Havana and a big stockholder in the track at Havana, was a visitor today.

State Senator Richard Johnson, president of the Maryland State Fair Association at Laurel, Md., was among today's visitors.

Two horses were claimed out of the third race today, H. Fink getting Dervish for $1,160 and S. J. Baiocchi securing Ting-a-Ling for $1,560. J. M. Henry, Jr., ran up the winner, Gloaming, from $1,000 to $1,600.

On Saturday there will be a handicap at one mile for gentlemen riders, the minimum weight being 140 pounds.

BELMONT PARK'S AUTUMN STAKE RACES.

Although not a matter of certainty at present, it appears to be quite probable that New Yorkers are to enjoy fall racing at Aqueduct and Jamaica. However that may turn out, there is no doubt whatever about racing at Belmont Park. The meeting at the big track is to open August 29 and terminate September 11, thus providing twelve days of the sport.

As stellar attractions the Westchester Racing Association has provided a list of thirteen stake races, entries to which will close at midnight of next Saturday. Ten are to be run on the flat and three are well-endowed steeplechases. One feature is the renewal of the Lawrence Realization. This formerly highly-important, valuable race for three-year-olds, was last contested in 1913, when it fell to Rock View with Monocacy second and Rock Fish third. Its greatest value was in 1894, when Dobbins won with Hornpipe second and Rey El Santa Anita third, its net return then being $33,400. It has now been cut down from its old distance of a mile and five-eighths to a mile and a quarter with $2,500 added.

Particulars of the stakes now on offer appear in the advertising section of this issue of Daily Racing Form. These are events worthy of liberal patronage and owners should hasten to send in their nominations.

HAWTHORNE IS PROSPERING

YESTERDAY'S PATRONAGE BETTER THAN THAT OF MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Hot Finishes Mark Several of the Races and Some Outsiders Score—Wilhite Takes the Principal Race of the Day.

Another generous patronage was at Hawthorne yesterday afternoon, thoroughly dispelling any remaining doubts as to the success of the present meeting. The racing was more routine in character than formerly and there was an entire absence of confusion. Those with an inclination for speculation found ample opportunity to indulge, providing he had taken precautions and established his credit. The weather was intensely hot.

The card, while an ordinary one on the whole, furnished excellent sport, most of the finishes being close enough to suit the most exacting. In several of the races came upsets, outsiders, but slightly regarded with favor, wining over the choices, after gruelling drives.

The Hawthorne Handicap, at a mile and seventy yards, for a purse of $600, was regarded as the best offering and it furnished a rousing battle between the first four, Wilhite getting the verdict a scant length in front of Huffaker, with Grover Hughes and Casey Jones following noses apart. Wilhite and Huffaker were both sufferers on the first turn from interference due to jockey Byrne's rough tactics on Grover Hughes, but under good guidance Wilhite saved much ground when it counted most and it was in the main responsible for his victory. Huffaker had to race wide for most of the way and showed a good performance.

Another thriller came in the third race when Beauty Shop and Mary H., the latter the favorite, measured strides on even terms for the last eighth of the mile in the third race and landed noses apart, Beauty Shop getting the award.

The closing race in which a poor band made the contest, was another hair line wind-up, with Just Red staying in front long enough to win by a nose over Geo. Roesch, with Marojrie D., the same distance in front of Charles Francis.

In the opener Sleeper was regarded with high favor, but the best he could do was to land second, the winner turning up in the first-time starter Justify, from the Williams Bros.' stable. The filly ran like a good one, overcame early interference and stood a hard drive in the final eighth. R. H. Anderson, of which much was expected, suffered from interference and at the start, which contributed extensively towards his failure.

J. C. Yeager's Luzzi had the call in the second race, but he could do no better then finish in third place, H. G. Bedwell's Borax winning handily over the neglected Esther L.

J. C. Welch, in the third race would probably have won handily but for being practically left at the post. He closed an immense gap to finish fourth, and was going the fastest at the finish.

After the finish of the last race Just Red, the winner, continued circling the course and went two miles before he could be brought under control. It is a frequent caper of his.

J. C. Yeager was at the track. He arrived recently from Louisville, where he has been confined in a hospital and passed through a difficult operation.

Ed Alvey was among the visitors and expressed surprise at the big action here.

There was another big list of foreign arrivals during the day and included Fred Cook, who came from New Orleans.

As a result of the $1,515 surplus money from yesterday's run-ups, the purse offerings for today compares with that of any track in the country. Substantial sums were added to all the races, no purse being of less than $700 value, with a $1,000 handicap.

Steward Fitzgerald, after repeated warnings to riders against rough riding, resorted to suspensions. The first to suffer was Byrne, which was handed six days for rough tactics in the fourth race.

Jockeys T. Hunt and Stirling were each suspended for five days by the starter for disobedience at the post.

Starter James Milton modified the suspension of jockey T. Hunt to enable him to ride out his engagements for the afternoon.

The failures of Toddling, Gallant Boy, Lindley and J. C. Welch to start with their opponents, resulted in an order by the starter that they would have to be schooled at the barrier before again starting.

Bradley Wilson, organizer for the Thoroughbred Horse Association, was an arrival from Lexington and will remain several days to enroll new members.

Martin Nathanson, who recently resigned as presiding judge and secretary at the Mount Royal track, is expected to arrive at the track this morning.

Several horses that have been slightly ailing since their arrival at the track, are rounding into good form and will be seen in races shortly.

The injury sustained by Wall Street was more serious than at first thought, according to the owner, H. G. Bedwell, and that colt will probably be out of training for the remainder of the season.

Hawthorn, by his easy victory, showed a return to his best form and will be a troublesome opponent for the best at the track to tackle in the shorter races.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Communications without names and addresses will not be noticed nor answered. No answers will be sent by mail and none by wire unless reply prepayment is made at time of wiring query.

D. B. C., Lexington, Ky. Colin was never beaten. He started in fifteen races and won them all.

R. R. G., Tonlon, Ill. The only Farmer Boy registered is a bay horse ten years old, by Nimrod—Priscilla.

F. H. W., St. Louis, Mo. Windsor races under eastern time and consequently is an hour faster than Chicago time.

L. J. W., Detroit, Mich. A $2 mutuel ticket that pays back $2.70 is thirty-five cents to a dollar, as was stated in equivalent odds in the case of Goldy a place July 10.

JOCKEYS CALLED TO THE COLORS.

London, Eng., July 18.—The call to the colors of all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 41, under the new conscription act, threatens to seriously interfere with racing, the majority of the present-day jockeys being liable for service. Frank and Stanley Wootton have been on active service for some months, but the compulsory service calls out such jockeys as Frank Rickaby, J. Childs, C. Childs, H. Jellis and Lancaster. Many jockeys have suffered from broken bones in carrying out their profession in the past, and only such deformities will enable them to keep in the saddle during the continuation of the war. The well known Anglo-French jockey, George Stern, offered himself for service, but has been rejected as being too short.

SOME REMARKABLE RACING DREAMS.

Thormanby Relates Some Astonishing Tales of the Turf Occurring in England.

"Of all forms of superstition by which sportsmen of the gambling sort are affected, the most prevalent, I think, is the belief in dreams as prophetic of future events. And it must be admitted that there is some ground for such belief, for in many cases wonderful tips have come from dreamland. I have collected a few of these as samples, and I have no doubt most readers could add to the list.

"About a month before the Derby of 1873 Mrs. Peters, the wife of the steward at a certain London club where a large Derby sweepstakes was made up every year, dreamed that one of the members had sold his chance to her husband, and that the horse won the race. At breakfast next morning she told him her dream. The steward, who was very skeptical about such matters, laughed at her, but asked the name of the horse.

" 'Doncaster,' she answered. 'I saw it as plainly as I see this cup and saucer, and the whole thing was so vivid that I am sure there's something in it.'

" 'Pooh, pooh, old girl. Doncaster hasn't a chance,' replied her worser half. 'I've backed the winner and his name's Kaiser, and you shall have a new bonnet out of the stakes.'

The lady shook her head and stuck to her text, though she knew it was no use arguing. A few days before the great event came off one of the members of the club said to the steward:

" 'I say, Peters, I sail on Monday for the east, and I want to get rid of this ticket. Everybody says the horse has no chance, and if you can get some one to give a guinea for it, let me know.'

"Peters looked at the name on the ticket and read 'Doncaster.' Now, whether he bethought him of his wife's dream, and the peculiar coincidence influenced him, or whether it was done in a spirit of pure speculation, it would be useless to inquire; but Mr. Peters' reply was: 'All right, sir, and there's the guinea, and if nobody will have it I will keep it; not but what I feel sure that Kaiser will win.'

"The ticket was at once transferred to him, and he actually offered it to several gentlemen, who promply refused it. When the great day arrived and Mr. James Merry's horse was declared the winner, to the great astonishment and consternation of a good many people, Mr. Peters had the satisfaction of pocketing 150 sovereigns.

" 'Perhaps you won't pooh-pooh my dreams next time,' cried the missis, exultingly, when he told her the good news.

"There seems to have been something very peculiar and ominous about this horse, Doncaster, for Mrs. Peters was not the only person whose slumbers he invaded. On the Sunday morning previous to the Derby the wife of a costermonger—Timson by name—woke the partner of her bed by singing out lustily, 'the boy in yaller wins the day.' Ned Timson, who had been bawling mackerel all the previous day, and had been taking the hoarseness out of his throat the previous night with sundry pots of four-ale, wild at being aroused out of his refreshing slumbers, gave her a thump and told her to shut up. When they were both awake he asked her what she meant by kicking up that row. Then she told him that she had dreamed she was on Epsom Downs and had seen a jockey in yellow pass all the others horses, and everybody shouted, 'the boy in yaller wins the day.'

" 'That, you know, Ned, was a song my mother used to sing that she'd heard some great actress sing when she was a girl. If there's a jockey in yaller I'd put a bit on him if I was you.'

" 'Shut up, you silly mug,' growled Ned, who put as little confidence in dreams as did our friend, the steward."

"But these skeptical gentlemen are sometimes not quite so skeptical as they would fain make believe, and when Mr. Edward Timson, who was a bit of a sporting man in his way, saw the horses taking their preliminary canter, and one of the jockeys dressed in yellow—James Merry's colors—he clapped all the money he had in his pocket—thirty shilling—upon 'the boy in yellow," and pocketed forty yellow boys for his pluck. It was the making of him; he bought a new horse and cart, and christened the former 'Yellow Boy,' while Sal, you may be sure, did not forget to exult about her dream. She became a celebrity of the neighborhood and was regarded by her pals as a sort of Cassandra—as no doubt she was in some respects, when she had imbibed to many half-quarterns of gin.

"My next Doncastrian anecdote is not exactly a dream story, though its hero was a sleeping man; it belongs rather to that class of superstition which the Romans included under divination—the foreshadowing of coming events by some chance incident or stray word. A sporting man of my acquaintance was traveling into Scotland by the 'Flying Scotchman,' and, having fallen asleep, was awakened by the guard shouting 'Doncaster, Doncaster.'

" 'Eh, by jove,' he cried, starting up and rubbing his eyes; y'ou don't say so; has Merry's horse, then, really won?

"The guard was so struck by the words that he related them to several people. 'I should take it as a tip,' suggested one. He caught at the idea, put half a sovereign on the horse, and made twenty.

"But not even yet have I finished with this wonderful Doncaster and his lucky omens. There was a commercial traveler named Ramsden, nephew of a well-known trainer, who, though he had a great taste for racing, never staked a farthing upon any other event than the Derby, but regularly every year put his fiver upon his fancy for the Blue Riband. It so happened, however, in the contrariety of things in general, that he was never able to pay a visit to the Downs on the great day, as in that week his Dublin journey was always due. His manner of selecting his horse was singularly original; he never took a tip, never allowed his judgment to be influenced, as far as putting on his money went, by any sporting 'organ'; he appealed purely and simply to blind chance, in this manner: He wrote out the names of all the horses that ran, each upon a separate slip of paper, rolled each up in a little pellet, then, taking the lot up in his hand, cast them with as much force as he was able against the wall of his room, and backed the horse that rebounded farthest. Though the experiment had not been successful on the whole, it was eminently so for the Derby of 1873, for the pellet he picked up had 'Doncaster' inscribed upon it.

"Another famous dream horse was Blue Gown. The following story was related to me by a sporting writer as a personal experience. After that famous Derby was run, I went off to finish the night at Cremorne. I had scarcely passed through the gates when I met a pal, in the commercial line, in very high spirits, who asked me to come and have a drink. 'I have just landed a thou. over Blue Gown,' he said, 'and it is the queerest story you have ever heard. I fancied Rosicrucian, and had a bit put on him, when I dreamed the funniest dream. You know I'm in the hosiery line. Well, I was down at Manchester a few weeks back, and one night I dreamed a lady came to me and said, 'Mind I shall require a blue gown to match with the stockings you have given me.' Well, I never take any notice of such things, and certainly I never thought of connecting it with Hawley's horse. Hang me, if two nights afterwards I didn't dream precisely the same thing over again. I began to think it rather singular; but still the coincidence never dawned upon me, though I actually dreamed it a third time. But it was now so very extraordinary that I mentioned the circumstance to a friend. 'It's a tip for the Derby, as sure as you're alive,' he cried at once; 'lay on all you know, and I'll go in with you.' Then it seemed to come upon me all at once, and I could not understand how I could have been such a fool as not to see it before. I didn't lose a moment in putting on Blue Gown every farthing I could scrape up, and this, showing a roll of bank notes, 'is the result.'

"About the same time a man named Lowry, who had been a tout to Henry Padwick, was lying dangerously ill, his life being despaired of.

" 'Look here, my girl,' he said to his wife one morning, 'get together all the money you can and put it on Blue Gown, for that's the Derby winner for this year. I mightn't live to see it, but it's a dead certainty, as sure as you are here.'

" 'La, Jm, what makes you thnk that?' inquired the wife.

" 'Because it's come to me in my sleep,' he answered.

"She had the courage to follow his advice, and, though he was under the turf before the event came off, she made a nice little sum by the tip to console her widowhood and give her a good chance to another husband.

"The triple dream I have just mentioned had a parallel some years previously. A man named Coakely, a chemist and druggist at Stockbridge, one night in the spring of 1846 dreamed that he saw Pyrrhus the First win the Derby. He was not a betting man, so he could not understand what had put the horse into his head; he was still more puzzled when he dreamed the same thing on the following night; he was yet more astounded when it returned on the third. Being acquainted with John Day, who, as everybody knows, lived in the neighborhood, he told him about this curious vision of the night. 'I should back him,' was the worthy trainer's advice. The chemist very wisely took it and made more by that tip in a day than he would have done by pills in a year.

"For my next anecdote I must go as far back as 1839. A provincial actor, named Freeman, very well known in his time, while performing in some country town had his benefit fixed for the Derby night. In those days of small salaries the benefit was the actor's main dependence to clear off debts, stock him with clothes, and prepare him for his next engagement, and the choice of a piece likely to prove the most attractive was a matter requiring the most careful attention and a source of much anxiety. Mr. Freeman, on the present occasion, found the task so difficult, and was so worried by conflicting ideas, that he was almost ill. One night his wife awoke him with, 'Jim, did you hear that?'

" 'No,' he said. 'What?'

" 'I heard a voice say, quite distinctly, that if you put up "The Flying Dutchman" for your benefit you'll have the biggest house of the season.'

" 'Good Lord,' cried Freeman; 'I never thought of that piece, and that is the name of the Derby favorite. A splendid idea. I'll do it; if the horse were to win it would fill the house.'

"He lost no time in issuing bills; those in the town who had bet on the horse, thinking it a lucky tip, took tickets, and when the news came that Flying Dutchman had won the Blue Riband numbers of people, struck by the coincidence, flocked to the theater, filling it from floor to ceiling, and making it, indeed, as the mysterious voice had prognosticated, the biggest house of the season."—Thormanby, in London Sportsman.

BAY RONALD'S MOST BRILLIANT SON.

That the Derby victory of Minoru in the livery of the late King seven summers ago was immensely popular goes without saying. That the bearer of the royal colors was the best of his year few, however, would care to assert. The champion of the period, despite the fact that he was unplaced to Minoru in the Epsom race, was Bayardo, a son of Bay Ronald and Galicia, dam also of Lemberg.

Bayardo belonged to Mr. Fairie, by whom he was bred. The colt had a brilliant two-year-old career, running in seven races, all of which he won. His initial appearance was made in the New Stakes at Ascot, favorite for which was Perola, which subsequently won the Oaks. The filly could, however, only gain third position, Bayardo winning by a length and a half, with Perdiccas second. Bayardo next took part in the valuable National Breeders' Produce Stakes at Sandown Park, which he won comfortably from the Excellenza colt, afterwards named Glasgerion. At Goodwood he easily defeated Vivid and two others in the Richmond Stakes, while at the First October Meeting at Newmarket he won both the Backenham Stakes and the Rouse Memorial Stakes from moderate opposition.

By this time Bayardo had "made good," and when he was saddled for the Middle Park Plate only three animals appeared to oppose him. Starting at 6 to 1 on, the son of Bay Ronald defeated Vivid without much effort. A fortnight later he turned out for the Dewhurst Plate, in which he again ran across Perola. The latter accounted for all but the Manton-trained colt, which, however, had three lengths to spare when the judge's box was reached. This was his final essay of the year, and he retired for the winter bearing the reputation of a really good colt.

He was not seen out again until Two Thousand day. Having regard to his juvenile exploits, it was not surprising that he started favorite, odds of 13 8 on being bet. He, however, failed to get nearer than fourth, Minoru, Phaleron and Louviers filling the leading berths. The colt next took part in the Derby, for which he started third in request. The American-bred Sir Martin, it may be recalled, was favorite, but fell in the course of the contest. Ultimately there was a great finish between Minoru, Louviers and William the Fourth, the first-named winning by a short head, William the Fourth being a half length further away, Bayardo finishing fifth.

The colt was not thoroughly wound up on this occasion, and in the circumstances he may be said to have run creditably. When he subsequently returned to form, however, there was no stopping him, and before his second year had concluded he had recorded eleven consecutive victories. Among the races which fell to his share were the Prince of Wales' Stakes at Ascot, the Sandringham Foal Stakes, the Eclipse Stakes, the Duchess of York Plate and the St. Leger.

By Doncaster time he had long since rehabilitated himself in the good graces of the public, and he was installed favorite for the last of the classics, 11 to 10 being laid on him, though Minoru naturally had many supporters prepared to accept 7 to 4. Others of the field were Valens, Bachelor's Double and The Story, all of which distinguished themselves in handicaps. Nothing, however, had any chance with Bayardo, which beat Valens by a length and a half, Mirador depriving the Derby winner of third place.

Two days after his St. Leger triumph Bayardo took part in the Doncaster Stakes, in which he experienced most trouble from Verney, though the future Cesarewitch winner was well beaten at the finish. In his next race, the Champion Stakes, he was opposed by Dean Swift and White Eagle. Mr. J. B. Joel's old horse made a race of it and though Bayardo landed the odds laid on him it was only by a neck that the victory was gained.

As a four-year-old Bayardo ran on five occasions The first race in which he took part was the Fiftieth Biennial at Newmarket. In this odds of 100 to 9 were laid on him and he won easily from Great Peter. In the Chester Vase, however, he only defeated William the Fourth by a head. At Ascot, on the other hand, he had no difficulty in winning the Gold Cup from the French five-year-old Sea Sick II. and Bachelor's Double. The other competitors were Pure Gem, Southannan, Royal Realm, Buckwheat, Sir Martin, Carrousel, William the Fourth, Aveu—another French-bred—Bronzino and Apache. Bayardo won easily by four lengths. Then he won the Dullingham Plate in leisurely fashion and next appeared as one of three contestants for the Goodwood Cup, the two others being Magic and Bud. Those who desired to support Bayardo had to lay 20 to 1 on and, truth to tell, it looked all those odds on. But to the dismay of onlookers, Magic, ridden by Rickaby, defeated the favorite by a neck.

This was Bayardo's last race and in the following season he embarked upon his stud career. One of the first of his offspring was Good and Gay, which won the Bessborough Stakes and Buckenham Stakes, while he was also the sire of Ali Bey.—"J. F. P." in London Sporting Life.

LA FLECHE AS A BROODMARE.

Among the notices of the death of La Fleche there of course appears the statement that she was a failure at the stud. People have heard this so often that they have come to believe it, and I suppose it will be repeated as long as interest in bloodstock breeding remains, but it is untrue all the same. It may be said correctly enough that La Fleche had an unlucky stud career, inasmuch as her best stock were prevented from doing themselves justice, but no one can pretend that John o'Gaunt and Baroness La Fleche were not in the highest class; indeed, Rock Sand was lucky to beat the filly by a head at Ascot, when Martin, who rode her, took the blame of her defeat on himself and declared that Rock Sand would never beat her again. The vicissitudes of John o'Gaunt form a familiar story, and he was really the best colt of his year, but cursed with the most villainous bad luck. There were several other winners out of La Fleche, and her daughter, Sagitta has proved to be a good broodmare. Opinions differ as to which was really the best daughter of St. Simon. Some good judges swear by Signorina, and I have heard the late John Watts declare his belief in Memoir as having been superior to her sister, La Fleche. This may possibly have been so, but on the principle of judgment by results we are, I think, bound to give the award to La Fleche, which won a Cambridgeshire and an Ascot Cup, besides her classic races. That she was a very great mare is certain, but at the same time she was not quite so good as her stable companion, Orme, as was proved to demonstration twice over when they were four-year-olds. Nevertheless, while La Fleche has been placed on a pinnacle of fame by turf enthusiasts, they have never given Orme his due, though they all rose at him when he struggled home for his first Eclipse Stakes.

It was Memoir and La Fleche that first gave the idea of combining St. Simon or Galopin blood and Musket, and the Duke of Portland was no doubt acting on that idea when he purchased Carbine to mate with the Welbeck mares. Carbine, however, scored his greatest successes with mares devoid of St. Simon or Galopin. Wallace, Wargrave and Spearmint are cases in point. He sired a good horse, however, Carbine, from a St. Simon mare, and the reverse cross of St. Simon on Musket has again and again "made good" since the time when Bill of Portland went to Australia, to be followed by other Galopin and St. Simon horses, notably Grafton, which was himself out of a half-sister to La Fleche. The St. Simon horses, Positano and Simmer, did excellently well with this system of mating; so, too, did Haut Brion, but as yet the cross of Musket on St. Simon or Galopin has not been sufficiently tried to let us judge of its full effect. Probably Spearmint and Torpoint will before long give us something really worthy of this blood and combined character. La Fleche's son, John o' Gaunt, has done enough for fame if Swynford should be his only great son, and it is evident that Swynford himself will do great things as a stallion; so not improbably may Bowman whose dam, Sagitta, is a sister to John o' Gaunt, and whose sire, Chaucer, is half-brother to Swynford. The fame of the old mare is, therefore, not likely to die out, especially as there is another line of her through Baroness la Fleche to maintain the family. These have not as yet done quite as well as might have been hoped, but there is time enough yet.

It was after slipping twins to, I think, Ladas, seven or eight years ago that La Fleche went wrong, and did not breed again, but she had up to that time been a much better broodmare than her sister, Memoir, which was a shy breeder, instead. What a beautiful yearling La Fleche was. I remember her well at the old Hampton Court Stud, and I then wrote about her that if anybody could buy her privately for 4,000 guineas and take his chance of a profit at the sale he would find it profitable business. So he would have done, for she made 5,600 guineas and would have made more had not a cable from the late Mr. Marcus Daly to buy her arrived too late. Two years before that Memoir and Sainfoin had been sold as yearlings at the same stud, which never had more than about eighty acres of land, and was crowded with bloodstock year in and year out. Yet I think no stud has ever reared a Derby and Oaks winner for sale on the same day. Nor was La Fleche the last of the Mohicans, for the year following her they sold Best Man and also Sierra, the dam of Sundridge. It is a great pity that this stud was then dispersed, when at the very zenith of its prosperity, but its extraordinary success should always prevent us from dogmatising too freely about horse-sick pastures, limestone land and so forth.—"The Special Commissioner" in London Sportsman.

STOCKWELL'S MALE LINE FLOURISHING.

On looking through the list of winning sires of the present season, it becomes evident that the male line of Stockwell has been doing wonderfully well. Last year Polymelus, one of his descendants via Bend Or, headed the list of winning stallions, and he is again prominent being second in regard to value of races won to another member of the family in Radium. When it is considered that Radium was one of the last crop of foals got by Bend Or, and that the latter was twenty-five years old when mated with Taia, the fact speaks volumes for the potency of the Duke of Westminster's 1880 Derby winner. It is seldom indeed that so old a stallion as Bend Or was at the time he sired Radium is capable of begetting a colt of such class and constitution, one more over, which since he retired to the stud in 1909, has distinguished himself as a sire of stayers. Radium's chief winner this season is Clarissimus, whose victory in the Two Thousand Guineas was full of merit, and although that race, of course, was only a mile he may yet show that he has inherited the staying qualities of his sire. His defeat by Figaro for the Newmarket Stakes can be disregarded, for he was by no means himself, showing nothing like the fire and dash he displayed a fortnight earlier in the Two Thousand. Polymelus, the second in the winning list, depends chiefly on the Derby and Oaks heroine, Fifinella, for his position, not forgetting Pommern, winner of last year's Two Thousand, New Derby, and substitute St. Leger. Polymelus' feat of siring two successive Derby winners, by the way, had been accomplished on numerous occasions, the last stallion which previously did the trick being Cyllene (sire of Polymelus) with Minoru and Lemberg. Hampton accomplished a similar feat in the late "eighties" by aid of Merry Hampton and Ayrshire, and a few years earlier Hermit was credited with two Derby winners running in Shotover and St. Blaise, as was Parmesan before him with Favonius and Cremorne. At a much earlier period seven other stallions begot the Derby winners of two years in succession, but it need only be noted here that one of them, Waxy, did so twice, being, in fact, responsible for four Derby winners in seven years. Returning to the sires of the line of Stockwell, there are eight of them in the first eighteen, and all of them trace back to the great son of The Baron and Pocahontas through Bend Or.

Although the Stockwells have annexed three of this season's classic races, they failed to capture the One Thousand, Fifinella being beaten for that race by Canyon, whose sire, Chaucer, is a son of St. Simon. Chaucer stands third in the winning list, and another descendant of St. Simon in Fugleman (sire of the Irish Derby winner, Furore) comes fourth, with other St. Simon line stallions in General Symons and Desmond (both dead) also in the first eighteen. Of the remaining leading sires Roquelaure and Dark Ronald are tail-male descendants of Hampton (Newminster line), while Sundridge and Sunstar belong to the Speculum family. All the stallions mentioned belong to the male line of Eclipse. The rival houses of Matchem and Herod have each one representative in the first eighteen, Marcovil being a member of the Matchem family (tracing back through Barcaldine) and Roi Herode being a descendant of Herod, via Thormanby.—London Sportsman.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES OF THE DAY.

An insane negro barricaded himself in his house at 320 North Irving avenue, early yesterday, and with his wife, both armed with rifles, shot and killed five persons, wounding a dozen more. Finally he shot his wife and himself after 150 policemen had surrounded the house and blown it up with three charges of dynamite. The negro was Henry McIntyre, also known as McIntosh. For five hours he held the police at bay, and terrified the neighborhood for blocks around. Of the dead, one of them is a policeman, and two are his neighbors. After the police of six west side stations had sought to dislodge the pair with their revolvers, Capt. Wesley Westbrook of the Warren avenue station ordered fifty rifles rushed to the scene, together with gasoline and dynamite. The rifles were turned over to the policemen who had surrounded the building, and an almost unceasing fire was directed at the building. After this firing had continued for a half hour and had failed to stop the occasional shots fired from windows by the negro and his wife, a squad of policemen placed a charge of dynamite at the rear of the house. It was discharged with a roar that shook the neighborhood, and when the dust had settled, it was seen that the entire rear of the house, with the rear porch had been blow into the yard. A few minutes later another charge was fired from the basement of the building. Then a squad of policemen, headed by Detective Sergeant Edward Hughes of the Lake street station, rushed into the house. As they entered the bedroom Hughes saw the negro crouched behind the bed and peering wild-eyed, over the top of it. The sergeant fired first, the bullet striking the negro in the head. He was dragged from the building by the police, and it was found that he was not dead. He was rushed to the Park avenue hospital, where he died.

Concerning the floods in the lower Allegheney mountain regions, a dispatch of yesterday from Atlanta, Ga., says: As North Carolina floods slowly receded today, the situation in South Carolina grows serious. High waters were sweeping down from the mountain regions, many streams were out of their banks, and the state was threatened by the most destructive floods in its history. The death list from high waters in five southeastern states today stood at fifteen, with thirteen or more missing. The property loss was put at $15,000,000. Rescue parties searched the swollen Catawba river all night near Belmont, N. C., for ten construction men who went down with the Southern Railway bridge there Sunday. Ten others were taken from tree tops late yesterday, but the missing men are believed to have been drowned. While the situation was greatly improved around Asheville and Biltmore, where six persons lost their lives, reports from other districts showed damage far in excess of that first reported. Three million dollars' damage was done to property in Yadkin county, North Carolina, and food shortage was reported. Railway communication was destroyed; many manufacturing plants were demolished, crops were ruined and the population was described as being in need of immediate help. Flooded power plants in the inundated area have caused great loss to textile and other industries. In Charlotte alone 1,000,000 cooton spindles were made idle. No street cars are operating in that city, and kerosene, candles and a limited gas supply furnished the only light last night.

The Germans made an attack Monday night on the French line south of the Somme and gained ground in the vicinity of Biaches, the war office announced yesterday. The German attack was delivered against the French positions from Biaches to La Maisonette. Several attempts to take La Maisonette failed, with heavy loss to the Germans, the statement says, but groups of the attacking forces spread along the canal on the east side of Biaches, where the fighting continues. A German raid on hill 304 on the Verdun front west of the Meuse was broken up by French infantry fire. East of the river there was fighting with grenades, in which the advantage rested with the French. The artillery was active about La Laufee and Cheois. The statement follows: South of Somme the Germans attacked yesterday evening and last night our positions from the village of Biaches as far as La Maisonette. Nothwithstanding repeated efforts which cost them heavy losses, they were not able to obtain possession of La Maisonette. German detachments spread along the canal on the east side of Biaches, where the fighting continues. On the left bank of the Meuse(Verdun front) a surprise attack against our trenches at hill 304 was repulsed by our fire. On the right bank of the river, the night was marked by fighting with grenades in the vicinity of the Chapel of Sainte Fine and west of Fleury. The enemy was repulsed everywhere. There was active artillery fighting in the region of La Laufee and Chenois.

A dispatch from Petrograd yesterday says: The Germans have retreated nearly ten miles in Volhynia, under the swift advance of General Kaledin's left wing. In their hasty retirement several thousand more prisoners, a number of heavy guns and large supplies of war material have fallen into the hands of the Russians. The retreat was made necessary when several Russian regiments broke through the German front and threatened to surround a part of General von Linsingen's army. The Russians have advanced their lines to the north bank of the River Lipa, and are strengthening their new positions on the entire front. The advance widens the Russian salient, extending into the Austro-German front southeast of Kovel, thus removing the danger of crushing enemy attacks on both sides of the Russian wedge. All along the eastern front the czar's armies suddenly resumed the initiative. The Russian left wing in southern Bukowina is again in motion against the reinforced Austrian army. The infantry combats are becoming more frequent in Galicia and both artillery and infantry activity are reported on General Kuropatkin's front in the Dvinsk-Riga region on the north. The Russian commanders on the Austro-German front, however, are compelled to share public interest with the Grand Duke Nicholas, whose new offensive in the Caucasus continues to make progress.

Belgian troops operating in German East Africa have reached the shore of Lake Victoria, and in a seven-hour engagement fought on July 7, they dispersed the Germans opposing their advance, taking the German commandant prisoner and inflicting a number of losses on the Germans, according to an official statement issued by the Belgian war office yesterday. The review covers the operations of General Tombeur's army during a period beginning June 25. Briefly, the statement says, these operations were as follows: After defeating the enemy on June 25, one day's march east of Biramulo, Colonel Molitor's brigade continued to advance eastward, with the object of occupying the southwestern shore of Lake Victoria and cutting the retreat southward of the last of the enemy's forces still holding out in the region between the upper Kagera river and Lake Victoria. The Belgian troops on June 27 reached the shore of Lake Victoria at two points, Namirembe and Basira Yombo. In a sharp engagement lasting seven hours, fought on July 7, the enemy was dispersed. The commandant of the German colony was taken prisoner and the enemy lost a number of killed. The Belgian troops bore themselves admirably. Major Rouling was wounded twice while at the head of his regiment. No important news has been received from Colonel Elsen's brigade operating in the Ksumbura-Kitoga region.

The Senate yesterday adopted the enlarged building program of the naval bill by a viva voice vote. It provides for the construction within three years of 157 war vessels of all classes and for four dreadnaughts and four battle cruisers to be built next year. The principal ships to be constructed by July 1, 1919, under the Senate program are: Battle ships: Ten; four this year. Battle cruisers: Six; four in 1917. Scout cruisers: Ten; four in 1917. Torpedo boat destroyers: Fifty; twenty in 1917. Fleet submarines: Nine; two now under construction; to be completed in 1917. Coast submarines: Fifty-eight; thirty in 1917. Other ships include one submarine, with Neff system of propulsion, three fuel ships, two ammunition ships, one hospital ship, one repair ship, one transport, two destroyers' tenders, one fleet submarine and two gunboats. The bill as it passed the House provided for a total of seventy-two ships with only five capital ships, all battle cruisers. By a vote of forty-eight to eighteen, the Senate rejected an amendment to require three of the new battle ships to be kept on the Pacific coast. It was argued that the amendment would be an infringement on the constitutional authority of the president as commander in chief of the navy.

Yesterday's Berlin statement says: The official German statement of today says that the Franco-British forces on both sides of the Somme devoted yesterday to artillery preparation. Heavy attacks last night by the British against Pozieres on the Somme front and positions to the east were repulsed, as were attacks by the French at Biaches, La Maisonette, Barleux and Soyecourt, according to the official headquarters' statement on fighting on the western front is as follows: At numerous points along the northern front enemy patrols were repulsed by our defense. In a British trench east of Vermelles, a German patrol captured one officer, four noncommissioned officers and eleven men. On both sides of the Somme, artillery preparation was in progress during the day. In the evening, strong attacks against Pozieres and the Position to the eastward, and also against Biaches, La Maisonette, Barleux and Soyecourt were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. In the Meuse sector there has been lively artillery activity and minor hand grenade engagements.

A dispatch of yesterday from Camp Wilson, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, says a school on sanitation for the instruction of every officer in the state national guard will be begun here next week with the encampment of the Illinois soldiers as a model, according to the announcement today of Colonel I. H. Munson, government sanitary officer. The course will be a thorough one, including lessons in medical attention and the latest safeguards to health in places where large numbers of men are being held. Illinois officers considered the fact that their camp has been chosen as a model for officers of other state guards to study, in the light of unqualified approval on the part of the government of their work. They pointed out that it should prove an absolutely healthy camp, and that no contagious diseases would be permitted to make any headway even should an occasional case break out. The "sanitation course" will last many weeks. Officers from militia troops concentrated along the border will attend in turn until all have passed examinations as experts in this work. Inspection of the three regiments comprising the first brigade was begun today by Captain Campbell King, U. S. A. Three or four days will be required for the work, and a report will be made to General Funston.

War's revival of shipbuilding as an American industry is emphasized in a bureau of navigation statement yesterday showing that the country's shipyards had under construction or contract on July 1, 385 steel merchant vessels of 1,225,784 gross tonnage. High ocean freight rates proved the stimulus that quadrupled construction within a year. Great Britain, although hampered by the drain of war and a big naval construction program, still leads the world in building merchantmen. Her shipyards have under actual construction now 423 steel merchant ships of 1,423,335 tonnage and would have more but for the fact that private yards are engaged in building war vessels. The entire world in 1915 launched 743 merchant ships of 1,201,638 tonnage. Of these eighty-four of 177,460 tonnage were launched in the United States.

James Hobart Moore, a brother of W. H. Moore, and a Chicago broker, died yesterday in his summer home in Lake Geneva, Wis. Although he made his home in Santa Barbara, Cal., he had offices in Chicago at 122 South Michigan boulevard. He was a lawyer and with his brother was at the head of the four great corporations known as "the Moore group," representing a combined capitalization of $187,000,000, which were absorbed by the United States Steel corporation. The Moores gained control of the Diamond Match company, and tried to monopolize match production in America and England. The Moore firm also controlled the Rock Island system up to the time it went into the hands of a receiver.

The one-cent newspapers will be a thing of the past within a short time, predicted Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield Monday. Prices have increased all along the line on nearly all commodities, and within the last few months there has been a steady increase in the price of materials entering into the making of news print paper and an increased demand for paper. From information which has reached me, I am of the opinion that advertising rates will have to be increased also, as it appears that the increased cost of paper can not be made up alone by the increase in the price of the newspaper.

An American four-masted schooner, presumably laden with petroleum, and three Swedish steamers laden with pulp have been captured by German torpedo-boats south of Drager, Denmark, and taken into Swinemuende, says a dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Copenhagen.

Discovery of new wells last year increased the production of crude oil in the gulf field fifty-seven per cent over 1914, the geological survey announced yesterday. A total of 20,577,103 barrels were marketed.

A central News dispatch from Amsterdam says great damage has been caused by an earthquake in the region of Fiume, Austria. In the city of Fiume, the dispatch says, a terrible panic was caused by the earthquake.
